

Bonnie Hogue Duffy

Partner

Bonnie Hogue Duffy couples a deep understanding of health care policy with a passion for issues to produce results for clients. Bonnie is a quick study of complex issues and her pleasant demeanor makes working with her easy.

As a partner, Bonnie provides policy advice and government relations services. She comes to NVG after leading QGA Public Affairs' healthcare practice for over eight years. Bonnie has deep experience tackling complex political and policy challenges. Her extensive experience in the healthcare sector—working with Fortune 500 companies, leading consumer organizations and key members of Congress and the Administration—is an asset to our current and future clients.

Bonnie brings to NVG ten years of experience in the United States Senate, where she worked for Senator Jack Reed (D-RI), the Senate Democratic Leadership and the Senate Special Committee on Aging. Prior to joining QGA, Bonnie served as Director of Federal Policy at the Alzheimer's Association and as Director of Policy at AHIP.

A native of North Carolina, Bonnie graduated from Tulane University and earned a M.A. in Public Policy from Duke University. She serves on the national board of the Tuberous Sclerosis Alliance and teaches Sunday School at St. John's Episcopal Church, Norwood Parish.
