

Jane Loewenson

Partner

Whether you need a policy expert or a master legislative strategist, Jane Loewenson is on your short list of people to call. Jane leads NVG's health care practice, bringing to the firm detailed knowledge of health care policy, over a decade's worth of experience in key positions on Capitol Hill, and strong relationships with policymakers.

Through her active engagement in the major health care debates of the past twenty years, Jane has significant insight into strategies that work to advance or defeat an initiative.

Her strategic vision and excellent collaborative skills have earned her universal respect and have produced meaningful results for her clients both legislatively and administratively. She helps her clients formulate their best arguments, identify and engage allies, and advocate at multiple levels to achieve their policy goals.

Before joining NVG, Jane served as Director of Health Policy for the National Partnership for Women & Families, where she directed the Partnership's work in health care access, quality improvement, and health information technology. She led several successful coalitions, providing strategy, analysis, consensus-building, and key written materials. Her expertise led her to testify before Congress, and to conduct press and legislative briefings.

Prior to her work at the National Partnership, Jane spent over a decade on Capitol Hill, where she served as Senior Health Policy Advisor to Senate Democratic Leader Tom Daschle for seven years. She advised the Democratic Leader on all aspects of health care legislation, and worked closely with the full Senate Democratic Caucus, the Finance Committee and HELP Committee staff, key House of Representatives Committee staff, House Leadership, and Administration officials. Jane also spent four years on the staff of the Labor and Human Resources Committee for Senator Christopher J. Dodd and as a health fellow for Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, and has worked for the National Institutes of Health. In addition, Jane's longstanding involvement in and knowledge of federal health policy has resulted in her advising both Senate and Presidential campaigns.

Jane graduated magna cum laude from Brown University and received a Master's Degree in Public Policy, with a health policy focus, from the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University.
